

Beloved in Christ and our partners in ministry

We want to praise the Lord for another year of great accomplishments that together we have achieved. Our joy is to see clearly God's moving in every situation especially in those situations that would be humanly impossible to accomplish. It is always good to look back to remind us that alone would have been impossible to reach the targets proposed. So we feel joy to share with each of you these great advances.

Project SEMERAITA, Iranduba AM, in the beginning was just a piece of land with nothing but today we have two sheds to begin teaching the first module planned for March. Various efforts have contributed to this dream to come true in so little time.

AMI Training Center, where we serve as co-director and teacher, finished the year with eight students from seven different ethnic groups. It was a big celebration to see them all coming to graduation and with a willingness to get involved in some kind of work in their village or community afterwards.

There was also a workshop called "Celebrating Liberation" a program developed by CONPLEI in partnership with SAM, AMI, ALEM and others where we had the participation of 22 indigenous groups.

This program aims to show the problem that alcohol does in the life and health of those addicted and this which has been one of the major problems among indigenous communities.

Other major activities had been the "Mini-CONPLEI" and the so called "Mission Awareness" conferences involving indigenous and national churches. These have been of great impact to challenge and to call the responsibilities of joining forces to reach the indigenous nations.

CONPLEI has also impacted other countries in South America helping to start indigenous networks in five countries of high and lowland of the Amazon basin: Paraguay, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and Colombia (January 2011).

We are grateful to everyone who prayed and had contributed for the success in these major movements. Undoubtedly, all had their collaboration in this journey. We want to also count on your support and involvement with our ministry in this coming year.

Our family wishes everyone a new year full of blessing and joy, overcoming with wisdom and grace every challenge ahead.

In Christ,
The Terena Family
